Ah man...
Sigh...
Boy, this really brings back a lot of memories
Hey Germany, do you remember?
Tremble Tremble
way back during WWI, when we were enemies?
Mani in alto!
(ITALIAN: HANDS IN THE AIR!)
Nicht Schießen!
Kamerad! Bitte! Nicht Schießen!
(GERMAN: PLEASE DON'T SHOOT ME! I'M A FRIEND! PLEEEASE DON'T SHOOOOT!)
Lolol, I'm pleased that it's been going so swimmingly. Can't you do better than that?

[redacted] of you have probably heard this one before, but I love this joke (* ∀ *)

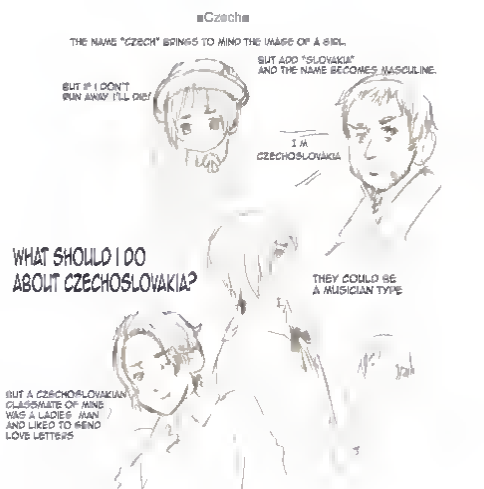
The scene is the front, where the German Army and the Italian Army are facing off against each other. Both sides have barricaded themselves inside their trenches and as neither one is able to do any damage to the another, they have arrived at a stalemate. However, in order to get the Italians to poke their heads out of the trenches so they can shoot at them, the Germans came up with the scheme of calling a common Italian name.

German Soldier: Marco! Is Marco over there?
Italian Soldier: I'm right here!
And as soon as he pops his head out of the hole a sniper gets him.

After taking severe casualties from this trick, the Italian troops finally learned from their mistakes and tried the same thing on the Germans.

Italian Soldier: Hey! Adolf! Is Adolf there?
German Soldier: Hey, who just called my name?
Italian Soldier: It was me!
And he jumps up and gets shot

Italians are so cute!(* ∀ *)



■Czech■
THE NAME "CZECH" BRINGS TO MIND THE IMAGE OF A GIRL.
BUT ADD "SLOVAKIA" AND THE NAME BECOMES MASCULINE.
BUT IF I DON'T RUN AWAY I'LL DIE!
I M CZECHOSLOVAKIA
WHAT SHOULD I DO ABOUT CZECHOSLOVAKIA?
THEY COULD BE A MUSICIAN TYPE
BUT A CZECHOSLOVAKIAN CLASSMATE OF MINE WAS A LADIES' MAN AND LIKED TO SEND LOVE LETTERS

I hadn't thought about Czechoslovakia (д)
